City Has a Deficit of $266.011 32 Instead of a Balance of $77,769.52 As Set Forth.

City Treasurer Gideon Snyder left out of his annual report submitted Wednesday the most important thing in city finances—the outstanding warrants. He never considered them for a moment. The city has issued $343,780. redeemed and these warrants are drawing interest. When they are considered the city has a deficit of $266,011.32 instead of a balance of $77,769.52 as Snyder would have the taxpayers believe. In the following table the outstanding warrants charged against the funds are set out in the third column. This is the indebtedness of the city that snyder-falled to account for:

Mrs. Allen averred that she did not think they had any "old rubber," but was reassured by the man with the Vandyke beard and grimy face that she did have, and plenty of it. He offered her a dollar for it. The offer was accepted and the man with the gunnysack was invited to help himself to any other rubbish he saw lying about. He did.

It will be noted that the actual receipts for the year 1909 were only $1,237,362.27. But in Snyder's report he includes a balance on hand of the revenue funds of 1908, making a total of $1,421,612.84, in order to show a balance over the disbursements. Mayor Bransford is delighted with the outlook for next year. If these outstanding warrants are paid out of this year's taxes, the city will have about $401,000 on which to operate the city government during the year 1910.

Smooth Crook Last Night.

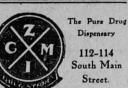

There is a bold crook in Salt Lake who seems to have a penchant for robbing the stores of knitting works companies. During the past few weeks three or four places of this character have been broken into and goods and money stolen. The latest case to be called to the attention of the police came this morning when it was reported that the Cache Knitting company's store in Main street, just below Z. C. M. I. had been broken into and robbed. The thief smashed a rear window in the storeroom of the Singer Sewing Machine company adjoining the knitting works. He then made his way to the partition of the Singer Sewing Machine or this the robber works. Climber of the store of the st one is above the transom and climbed over. No goods were taken but the thief got away with about $75 in gold and silver.

That the robber was thoroughly familiar with the interior of the store and know where the money had been secreted is quite evident from the conditions he left behind. The money had been taken out of the cash register and placed in a letter file. The file was concealed under some goods at the bottom of a show case and the thief knew where it was because he secured it without in the least disturbing the goods. The cash register was practically demolished and the drawer bored full of holes, but there was no money in it.

The robbery was reported to the police this morning and Chief of Detectives Sheets detailed Detective Joe Burt on the case and he is making an investigation.

RAIN STORM PREDICTED.

Warmer Weather Is the Forecast for Friday by the U. S. Observer.

More cloudiness and warmer weather are predicted for Friday, with some expectation of rain the following day, as it has been rainig along the coast, and there is a low barometer in the northwest. There was a continuance of the frost mist this morning, leaving the leafless trees covered with a thick hoar frost, accompanied by a fall in temperature.

The low pressure condition, central over New Mexico and western Texas yesterday, has moved in a northeasterly direction and now overlies the Mississippi valley, attended by precipitation there, and warmer weather between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic ocean. The western high now lies over central Wyoming and covers the western half of the country, except the extreme northwest where the pressure has fallen considerably. Zero temperatures prevail in northern Montana, North Dakota and Wyoming. But in the extreme northwest it is warmer. As a rule the temperatures are now above normal everywhere except in the great basin and the Rockles.

I can say, however, that we will rebuild the road That is a necessity. I expect our Chief Engineer Tilton to arrive from the flooded district in a day or two, and he will doubtless be able to give some definite idea of the extent of the damage done, and as to the advisability of rebuilding through the Wash or adopting some other route."

The local coal situation seems to have quieted down to the regular order of supply and demand, no severe short-age being reported from any quarter.

This morning C. W. Acer, a porter who has been employed at the Council salcon in east First South street near Main, made a complete confession to Lleut. The fact that he was the man with the Washington and the fact that he was never known to spend much money about town, and the fact that he was never known to spend much money about town, and the fact that last night he got drunk and displayed more ready cash than he was ever known to have before, led to his arrest. About $15 of the stolen money went for liquor and $30 had been left with a bartender until Acer called for it. These facts were brought to the notice of Patrolman Burton, and, putting two together who robbed his employer. This morning Lleut. Shannon had a heart to heart talk with Acer and the latter flushly confessed that he stole the moncy. He said he had been drinking and thought it would be easy to get a little ready cash by stealing the money and make it appear that robbers had broken into the place. JOBS GOING BEGGING.

Uncle Samuel Has Several Good Berths Vacant for the Right Men.

A cry for help has come from Washington and Orawell Williams, head of the civil service commission of Utah, is searching the tall timber in the land of aspirants for governmental jobs for a suitable remedy. He is willing to pay anywhere from $50 a month to $1.600 a year for anybody who is tall and broad enough mentally and physically to fill the bill.

The employes at the custom house at Kansas City are working overtime simply because there is an assistant assayer wanted. He must be an arithmetician in the chemical line, must answer practical questions in assaying, while his training and experience will be rated at one-fourth of his working value upon application. The job is work in the conditions. Most of these are in the mathematic line, such as quadratics, lone and solid geometry, trigonometry, logarithms, mensuration and projection. Then there is that little matter of surveying, and again contour construction. Topographic drawing and experience is all else that is necessary.

A way off at Manila, in the land of the Tagalogs, there is a position as computer waiting for somebody who will be paid $1,600 yearly. Pure mathematics, including calculus, is included in the examination, as well as a knowledge of practical computations. An assistant geologist, who can lead his class, will get $1,600. Others will range down to $1,600.

The examinations for the first two named positions will be held Feb. 2-3. For the others, Feb. 16-17, all at Provo, Logan and Sail Lake.

ation of the law which compels the slaughter and complete destruction of all tuberculous cattle, and the governor is being deluged with letters protesting emphatically against carrying out any such law. As noticed in The News previously, the attitude of the government in regard to such infected cattle is seriously complicating the situation, and making the enforcement of the state law a serious matter.

The government countenances the sale. The government countenances the sale to the condemned animal, white few of this state orders complete destruction of every part—hide and all. It is claimed that the position of the government would not have been so easy, had it not been ascertained that 75 per cent of the cattle of New England were tubercuous, and to have ordered a general destruction of all these animals would have resulted in overwhelming loss, as neither the state nor the government could afford to remunerate the owners. So it was ordered as a general rule that after slaughter the diseased sections of the animal should be destroyed, and the rest slaughter the diseased sections of the animal should be destroyed, and the rest holds and the section of all the cannot see which cattle owners in little cannot see which cattle owners and as he says there is nothing left for him to do but to carry out the plain proving and as he says there is nothing left for him to do but to carry out the plain provinces of the legislature would be called to straighten things out.

There are employed today in the coal mines in the vicinity of Price, between 3,000 and 4,000 men. The miners are paid better than $3 a day, making a total pay roll for the various mines of over $12,000 each day, or $75,000 a week, and $300,000 a month. These figures are probably considerably exceeded; they at least are not excessive. The various mines have working forces now of about as follows: Hiawatha, 100 men; Cedar Creek, 25; Castle Gate, 500; Winter Quarters, 500; U. P., 250; Clear Creek, 500; Kennelworth, 200; Sunnyside, 1,200. A miner knocks down and brings to the surface on an average probably two tons or more of coal each day, and often several times that quantity, making the daily output of the mines down there over 10,000 tons every working day. Some of the oldest and best mines are attaining great distances into the sides of the mountains, increasing the operating expenses somewhat. There is practically no shaft coal mining today in Utah mines. However, some of the inclines will show a 35 per cent grade, which adds considerably to the cost per ton of coal delivered at the mouth of the tunnels. Carbon county, with its thousands of acres of rich coal beds, is today one of the most important countles in the state, and in only a few years Emery county, which has been rather neglected in this respect, will show up coal resources equal to those of Carbon.

Ten New Directors Selected at Annual Banquet of Association Last Night.

At the annual banquet and business

At the annual banquet and business session of the Manufacturers' association held at the Commercial club Wednesday night, 10 new directors were chosen, publicity plans for the coming year were outlined and a general time of fellowship and enthusiasm for the future of the association was had. The banquet was a model of the chef's art, and was partaken of by about 50 members of the club with a few invited guests. Following the spread, the meeting was held, at which the reports of George S. McAllister, president, and Daniel F. Collett, secretary of the association, were rendered, as was also that of J. R. Bruff, the association treasurer. The reports of the executive officers showed that much progress had been made by the association during the year just closed, while Treasurer Bruff announced that the books showed a credit for the commencement of the present year of, $500, with no indebtedness. The report of President McAllister showed that when Mr. Collett assumed the position of secretary on May 1, there were 50 members of the association, whereas now there are upward of 100 members. The various fairs held during the year were reviewed by the president, and the credit for the first one, the prosperity fair, was given to the former secretary. Lon J. Haddock.

Secy. Collett's report was comprehensive, and covered the work achieved by the association, with an outline of objects sought to be accomplished in the future.
